

FAMILY REUNION

A family reunion was held at the home of Mr. I. A. Napper, of Troy, Route 2, Sunday, May 9, in honor of his 86th birthday. He has four sons, four daughters, 45 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

We are sorry that two of his children could not attend. They were Mrs. Ceph. Simmons of Brantley and Mrs. Aaron Napper of Jack, Route 1. A majority of his grandchildren and great-grandchildren were present. We were proud of the attendance of a few friends. Every one enjoyed the dinner.

The day was enjoyed by all even though it was rainy. We all wish for him many more happy birthdays.

Mattie Lou Napper.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Hawkins, Misses Winnie, Wayne and Marianne Bowdoin were visitors to Montgomery last Thursday.

Mrs. F. D. Veal was the guest for several days last week of her sister, Mrs. J. W. McKee, in Louisville.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The ordinary machine gun is too cumbersome for our Marines, especially for parachute troops. The new gun used by the paratroops is a compact model with a pistol grip and a steel frame stock which folds out of the way when not in use. You can buy these for our boys in the Solomon Islands and elsewhere with your purchase of War Bonds. Join the Payroll Savings Plan and let's "Top Hat Ten Percent."

Plane Output Doubled in Year

Tonnage Is Tripled Since Pearl Harbor, Aircraft Industry Reports.

WASHINGTON.—American aircraft builders turned out more planes in the first year of the present war than they built in all the 23 peacetime years following the First World war, the Aeronautics Chamber of Commerce states. On the more significant tonnage basis, it added, production was nearly three times as great as in the 23-year period.

P. Newton, senior vice president of the chamber, summarized the year's war plane accomplishments as follows:

"While warplane production numerically is up 100 per cent above Pearl Harbor, production measured by tonnage of warplanes built is nearly three times as much."

"Heavy four-engine long-range bombers, the serial dreadnaughts which are smashing Axis hopes of world conquest in every quarter, has increased substantially."

"Production of aircraft engines is up about 240 per cent, measured in terms of horsepower."

"Man-hour work in production of planes, engines and propellers has increased 125 per cent."

Another index of the large increase in production Mr. Newton pointed out was the fact that the aircraft industry now being delivered every 15 days represent more in dollar volume than the total plane output during the First World War.

The tonnage and man-hour increase emphasize the production morale of the industry," Mr. Newton said. "The industry is producing planes which are accepted by the army, navy, War Production board and other government agencies as true measurement of production than the unit output index."

Mr. Newton placed the value of production for war in the last year of peace at $4,200,000,000, compared with a production of $1,000,000,000 in the last year of peace.

Paul Tolson.

The number of women employed in the industry increased from 4,300 to 115,000.

The automobile companies, Mr. Newton said, "have played an important part in supplying auxiliary equipment and parts for aircraft, including engines and parts, and they are now getting into production on some types of aircraft."

MISS BECKEL WEDS SERGEANT BOWDOIN—

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Beckel celebrated the marriage of their daughter, Hazel, to Sgt. Leroy Bowdoin, formerly of Elba, Alabama, now stationed at St. Augustine.

The wedding was quietly performed Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in Grace Methodist Church by the Rev. J. J. Treadwell in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Gertrude Beckel, and the best man was Private Lloyd Grofenvorst.

New Bandage Stops Wound Infections

Surgeon at Johns Hopkins Reports Discovery.

BALTIMORE.—Development of a tough and translucent film of medicated cellulose which can effectively shut out infection from war wounds and burns, yet is easily carried in a soldier's first-aid kit, was reported here.

The paraffin, pliable sulfadiazine bandage was developed by Dr. Kenneth L. Pickrel of the department of surgery at the Johns Hopkins medical school.

Particularly valuable in the case of burns, the film also has been used in surgery for such purposes as covering recent incisions, lacerations and abrasions and hastening "closure and regeneration of perforated eardrums."

Dr. Pickrel disclosed that the discovery came from the use of a solution containing sulfadiazine.

"This solution, when used on burned patients, had several advantages," he wrote. "Since it was an aqueous solution the drying effect was not so severe as that of other forms of treatment, and the film formed over the burned surface added and maintained moisture."

"In an attempt to remedy these difficulties medicated cellulose has been used, and this has been enhanced the drying and film-forming properties."

"While studying various drying agents and plastic substances it occurred to the writer that a prepared sulfadiazine film might serve a very useful purpose in surgery."

The first such films were made about a year ago, and Dr. Pickrel formed them by dipping strips of material in the solution.

The technique has been altered somewhat so that the resulting film is thin, strong, pliable, slightly elastic and translucent," he said.

U. S. Air Corps Officers Share All, Even Illness

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA—Lieut. William Coleman of Jacksonville, Miss., and Lieut. William Rowe of Elba, Ala., are two of the U. S. air corps officers who have shared their good—and bad—luck together since the Pacific war started.

They graduated from Kelly and Randolph Field together, went to the Philippines in the same transport last November, were in the same shock, and each has been credited with downing a Japanese plane shot down.

They have more in common. They were shot by a Japanese plane in the Philippines and—just to maintain the friendship—Coleman succumbed to the malaria germ 36 hours after his capture.

Today they share twin beds in the same military hospital "somewhere in Australia" and both have been recommended for a decoration for heroism.

Good health and better living are essential, and farm women are doing their part in contributing to the war effort by growing good gardens and canning surplus vegetables.

EARLY PLANTING GIVES LARGER SOYBEAN CROP

Auburn, Ala.—Soybeans which are to be cut for hay should be placed thick enough to produce fine stems and during the first half of May, advises J. C. Lowery, agronomist of Alabama Poly. Institute.

Based on results obtained at the Alabama Experiment Station, the best varieties to plant for hay are: Ototoan, Laredo, and Tanager. Tokio, Tarheel, Biloxi and Mammoth Yellow make large yields but hay is of poor quality because of coarseness.

Plant two pecks per acre of basic slag or 200 to 400 pounds of superphosphate and 25 pounds of muriate of potash per acre at time of planting.

PFC. DE VAUGHAN IS EXPERT MECHANIC

Keesler Field, Miss., May 17.—Charged with the vital task of keeping huge B-24 Liberators in the high state of mechanical perfection required for modern aerial combat, Pfc. Thomas L. De Vaughan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. De Vaughan, Rt. 4, Elba, Ala., was graduated today as an expert mechanic from this unit of the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command.

Pfc. De Vaughan has just completed the 12-week course in bomber mechanics, receiving specialized training in B-24 maintenance, hydraulic and fuel systems, propellers, instruments, electrical systems, engines, structures and inspection. During the last eight days he was given a field test under simulated battle conditions, enabling him to apply, as he would in combat, what he learned from the course.

Members of today's graduating class are now qualified for line duty, though many of them will undergo training in aerial gunnery to augment their value to the Air Forces.

The B-24 Liberators, to which these men ultimately will be assigned, are the largest bombers actively used by the Army Air Forces today.

SAVE BEST CHICKENS
FOR BROILER STOCK

Auburn, Ala. — Hatcherymen and poultrymen who plan to raise chicks for meat production next year may improve the quality of their stock by selecting their breeders for fast feathering, efficient rapid growth, and superior meat production, says John Ivey, extension poultryman, A. P. I.

Fast feathering is especially desirable in broilers to eliminate pinfeathers in market birds. This may be detected in day-old chicks by the length and number of the wingfeather sheaths. The best type of chicks for broiler stock have well-developed primaries and secondaries with six or more secondaries. Poorer types have secondaries that are not so well developed, or with fewer of them, and in some cases very short primaries. The feather sheaths may be found easily in the down at the outer edge of the wings. When chicks of this type are selected for next year's breeding flock, they should be raised by themselves or marked in some manner.

Efficient rapid growth is best judged by body weights at the age of about four weeks. Chicks that have made the most satisfactory gains by the time they are 4 or even 5 weeks old should be kept for the breeding flock. Another check should be made for growth at the age of about 20 weeks when any birds that have not come up to expectations can be removed from the special group.

Superior meat production is indicated by the development of the breast at the age of about 6 weeks, and not later than 12 weeks. As the breast meat is the most valued part of a broiler, it is important that this characteristic be given considerable attention. Only those birds with well-nourished breasts should be retained for breeding purposes.

Until June 30, Alabama farmers can get power line extensions if they produce 5 animal units and can obtain 75 pounds of farmstead wire with a priority rating of AA-3 without filing a PD-1A application.

BIBLE TEACHINGS ON WINE'S DECEITFULNESS

LESSON TEXT.—Proverbs 20:1, 23:29-32; Matthew 24:49-51.

ILLUSTRATION.—At the last it biteth like a serpent, and stingeth like an adder.—Proverbs 20:1.

Decetful is a good word to describe both the product and the propaganda of the liquor business. Alcohol beverages are in themselves most dectful, and the methods by which they are sold to the public certainly cannot commend themselves to right thinking people.

Intoxicants are associated with social preferment, festive occasions, radiant beauty, when they ought to be connected with the blency eye, the babbling tongue, the ragged child, and brokenhearted mother.

What about the men who have lost their positions and their characters, and the women who have paid with their virtue for their love of intoxicants? Why not picture them in the beautiful magazine advertisements?

1. Wine is a Deceiver (Prov. 20:1).

Wine is personified here as an evil demon who leads men on in the hope of some pleasure or advantage, but which sets him down to the depths of destruction. It makes him think he is great and powerful, when he is only weak and degraded. It excites him to foolishness and wild boisterousness, when he would normally be sensible, quiet and orderly.

He who thought he was wise in partaking of its stimulation, finds himself deceived, and to his regret he realizes that he is a fool in the hands of a malicious deceiver.

2. Wine is a Deceiver (Prov. 23:33-35).

Depravity is a word not used as much as it was a generation ago, but it well describes the condition to which the drunkard comes in due time. And it is wine and other liquor which has deceived or corrupted him. A number of things appear in the text.

3. Liquor Destroys (vv. 29, 30). This is true morally, mentally, physically, and spiritually. Red eyes, wounds, complaining—these are only the outward signs of inward physical destruction and mental and social distress. The moral and spiritual destruction follows.

4. Liquor Deludes (vv. 31, 32). Its color, its sparkle and effervescence, its amiable appearance, all excite the anticipation of goodness and pleasure. And what does the drinker receive? The taste of a serpent and the sting of the adder. How true!

5. Liquor Demoralizes (vv. 33, 34). Alcohol is the handmaiden of immorality. "Strange women" come into the picture very quickly. The drinker soon finds that drink sets them free from the limitations of decency and good sense, and the result is beyond description.

Those who defend liquor, or temperance with this problem, may as well recognize that they are encouraging the moral destruction of our boys and girls. It is a terrible responsibility!

6. Liquor Debauches Man's Senses and Dazzles Man's Mind (vv. 34, 35). Only a fool would lie down to sleep in the midst of the sea, or on top of the mast of a ship, or in the gutter, or against a lamp post. That's what drink does for a man.

His perceptions become so dull that he can be beaten, and he does not know he has been hurt. Exposed to inclement weather, he knows not enough to seek shelter. His money is lost or given away without concern on his part.

And when he sobers up—what then? His faculties are so dazed that he can think of only one thing to do, and that is to seek more wine. What is it that Scripture says about the dog and the fool? (See Prov. 26:11).

7. Wine is a Destroyer (Matt. 24:49-51).

We have already touched on that point in its personal application, but now we see it in its bearing on his occupation and standing in the community.

The contrast is between the good servant who recognizes that his own and constant obligation is to serve, and the evil servant who violates his trust.

Notice that his first thought is to satisfy his fellow servants as to his satisfaction in "to drink with the drunkards."

Cruelty, mismanagement, unfaithfulness are tied up without question with drinking. Is it not sad today? If you doubt it, read your daily newspaper. Why trifle with any thing which keeps such a man company? You may find yourself mixed up with them beyond your ability to get free.

The final result is the loss of his position and of his life. Who will deny that this aptly states the end of the drunkard's way. But some one says: "I do not intend to be a drunkard. I only take a social drink." That is the way the drunk started. Why begin to trave that road?

C. G. NELSON, MARINE, WRITES FROM S. PACIFIC

Dear Editor:

Just received your paper dated February, today. After reading it over and seeing several letters from the soldiers who are still in the States, who are having such a hard time, will show my appreciation of your paper which was almost two months old, by writing a few lines if you can find room for them, but I know how everybody is about the war, for every page of the paper is war, and all movies are based on war. I am not writing about any war, for if I do it will be censored out. We are now on one of the best islands in the South Pacific for we are getting three meals a day and the best of food. Everything quiet here and we all like life and hope to stay for a long spell, but don't know what may happen next. We just wait and live in hopes. We are about to get out of practice saying, "praise the Lord and pass the ammunition," for several reasons. I cannot say what I would like to but we have all been lucky and we hope to keep up the good work. All has been done that could be done. Every man, woman and child in America is trying to help all they can, for if it wasn't for you all we could not stay here long.

During war times the armed forces get all of the praise, but what is being done back home is seventy per cent of our progress. So keep up the good work and let them yet hope to soon.

This country is approaching fall and winter fast. We can tell by the cool winds blowing here every morning. The snow-capped mountains are beautiful. I have several souvenirs but can't send them yet; hope to soon.

But will try it. I have several kinds of money; for instance, Jap money, and some Jap ammunition, a bracelet made out of a Jap Zero plane which fell (you know where if you have kept up with the papers).

To the boys who are left back home: The feminine sex are very unattractive, for almost all are dark and have hair like a sheep looking, go barefooted and live mostly on coconuts.

Can do a little better than that now. I have been invited out for the week-end and they really try to make us feel at home. They have schools and churches. I have visited both and have found several queer things about the school. They have two sessions of school, one in the morning for the girls and one in the afternoon for the boys, but the same teacher teaches both classes. Where we are now is quite different from that. I have had the chance to go through several missions and art galleries since I have been to these countries. They make all Americans welcome and try to make them happy. They want to learn more about America.

So we have a happy home, and let's keep it. Well, will write you again soon. Give everybody my love and write me. When you write a letter across the seas you will receive a warm welcome from the heart of the one who receives it.

Will Use Everyone Able to Turn Hand to Help in Winning War.

WASHINGTON.—Every able American will be getting some kind of training by the end of 1943 in the nation's effort to win the war. Millions of men and women will have to adapt themselves to new ways of working and living.

At least 5,000,000 women, for instance, must receive production training over the next 18 months, for many of the women upon whom industry is depending for its new labor supplies never have worked outside their homes.

Increasing numbers of men will go into the armed forces, city youths will be trained to plow fields, milk cows, raise chickens on farms. High school boys and girls will be trained to do janitor service, work in stores, do housework and take care of children. Tiny youngsters will drill for air-raid protection.

Work for Handicapped.

Even the physically handicapped, capable of working and free of defects that might endanger theirs or another's safety, will be taught to be useful.

The Office of War Information reports that approximately 15 million American women, or less than 25 per cent of the total female population, have paying jobs and that only four million of them are doing war work.

This compared with the total of 11,000,000 working in 1940 and the estimated 18 million women who will be working outside their homes by the end of next year, the OWI said.

In 1940, 1,400,000 were doing work involving national defense, OWI said, predicting that by the end of 1943 the number of women workers would rise to six million, or 30 per cent of the expected total labor force of 20 million in war industries.

The OWI also noted that the Navy government had made an about-face policy regarding women workers.

"Germany as early as 1939 had sidetracked her prejudice against all women, and had every morning loving women to leave children, church and kitchen" and had 37 per cent of all of them in jobs," OWI said.

Figures on German employment of women in 1941, given by the International Labor Office, "indicate how close to maximum utilization of available manpower Germany had then reached," the statement said.

In that year, 64 per cent of the German girls aged 15 to 19 were gainfully employed, 44 per cent of the women 20 to 25, and 15 per cent of those 26 and over.

Work for 60 Million.

President Roosevelt, in a recent statement, estimated that the number of Americans who will be engaged either in the armed forces or in war work of some kind, will total 62,500,000 by December, 1943.

Through the volunteer training program of the Office of Civilian Defense, Mr. and Mrs. Averette C. Red Cross, the American Women's Voluntary services and other organizations in first aid, to make bandages, to repair trucks, drive ambulances and run canteens.

Aviation companies are training workers in every field, and communications and transportation companies have through short-term programs to put workers through the paces before their experienced help is taken away.

Most far-reaching of federal services is the vocational training program. In the last 28 months, 3,100,000 persons have been trained for war work under this plan in 2,500 vocational schools.

British Shipyard Run

By Female Help Only

LONDON.—Somewhere along the coast of Britain is a shipbuilding yard that is operated entirely by women. And they are turning out as proportionate a number of sea-going vessels as any man-run yard in the country.

They are engaged, at the present time, in constructing ships which are urgently needed for special work.

A large percentage of the women were experienced shipyard workers before the war; others went through special training periods in schools set up at the port.

So successful has been the employment of women-built ships that the government is considering expanding the scheme. This will help solve the acute labor shortage felt in Britain's shipyards.

Son of Geologist Finds

Maps of Japanese Isles

HAYS, KAN.—Rummaging among papers belonging to his father, an oil geologist, Paul Hays has found a set of contour maps of the three principal Japanese islands, "I don't think there is a cross on the map that is not marked," says McCready. The maps were made more than 40 years ago when Japan was seeking oil on the islands. McCready turned them over to the United States government.

IF....

A Man Spoke to His Wife

Only Once A Month She Wouldn't Recognize His Voice

Elizabeth Forney, State home agent, announces that the Alabama Extension Service has published a new circular for use by backyard gardeners in canning and drying vegetables. Copies may be obtained from home agents.

Well, Mother, I'm still in a place that I can't say where, but I'm on an island, and one side of it looks like the background of a picture you had made in Columbus, Ga., and sent to me. It is pretty from a distance but when you get on it, it don't look good at all. But sometimes people have to like whether they want to or not, so I'm going to make the best of it I can, for it won't be like this forever. I love, Well, tell everybody back home to do all they can to help win this brutal war so we can come back home to our loved ones. You may send me some chewing gum, as we don't have any here, but here. Could tell you lots, but it would be blacked out. I doubt if this goes, but I am saying it, praying that it does. So write me long letters and all the news. Just a lonely Marine.

Pfc. Morris Davis, Co. K-3-22, Marine Corps, Care Fleet Postoffice, San Francisco, Calif.

PFC. DE VAUGHAN IS EXPERT MECHANIC

Keesler Field, Miss., May 17.—Charged with the vital task of keeping huge B-24 Liberators in the high state of mechanical perfection required for modern aerial combat, Pfc. Thomas L. De Vaughan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. C. De Vaughan, Rt. 4, Elba, Ala., was graduated today as an expert mechanic from this unit of the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command.

Pfc. De Vaughan has just completed the 12-week course in bomber mechanics, receiving specialized training in B-24 maintenance, hydraulic and fuel systems, propellers, instruments, electrical systems, engines, structures and inspection. During the last eight days he was given a field test under simulated battle conditions, enabling him to apply, as he would in combat, what he learned from the course.

Members of today's graduating class are now qualified for line duty, though many of them will undergo training in aerial gunnery to augment their value to the Air Forces.

The B-24 Liberators, to which these men ultimately will be assigned, are the largest bombers actively used by the Army Air Forces today.

SAVE BEST CHICKENS
FOR BROILER STOCK

Auburn, Ala. — Hatcherymen and poultrymen who plan to raise chicks for meat production next year may improve the quality of their stock by selecting their breeders for fast feathering, efficient rapid growth, and superior meat production, says John Ivey, extension poultryman, A. P. I.

Fast feathering is especially desirable in broilers to eliminate pinfeathers in market birds. This may be

PUPILS PRESENTED IN PIANO RECITAL—

Mrs. W. M. Ringsdorf presented her piano pupils in a recital on Tuesday night, April 27, at the Curtis School auditorium.

The recital was in the form of a playlet, the characters representing the folk of Fairyland. Each pupil was dressed in attractive costume, typical of the storybook character portrayed. The program, consisting of solos, duets, trios and songs, was beautifully rendered by the pupils.

Those taking part in the recital were: Betty Cottrell, Sara Lou Grimes, Nell Cotney, Mary Nell Kirkland, Lucille Jones, Nan Foley, Edith Jones, Clara Moore, Grimes, Daisy Cottrell, Nelson Grimes, Floyce Johnson, Lillian Baker, Rita Faye Galloway, J. O. Donaldson and Josephine Lee.

At the conclusion of the program, the guests were invited to remain for a social hour and were served refreshments by the music pupils.

Pvt. and Mrs. Wayland Bryan announce the birth of a daughter, on Monday, May 10, whom they have named Myrtle Yvonne. Pvt. Bryan is now at home from Fort Ord, California.

Miss Eva Mae Brown has returned home from Fairfax, where she has employment, and will visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brown, for several weeks.

Mrs. T. B. Bryan, Mrs. M. J. Lee and Miss Jessie Lee were visitors to Montgomery Saturday.

Lieutenant Douglas Easters has gone to Davis-Monthan Field, Tucson, Arizona, after spending several days' furlough with his mother, Mrs. Eva Easters, and other relatives in Elba.

About 12,000 Indians are serving with the United States armed forces.

Well, I am afraid to say too much and I hope you receive this. I will tell you more when I get home. I don't worry about me, for I am o. k. Just hope the Japs stay home today. Tell all hello and I am thinking of them. Love to all.

"THE HARVEST QUEEN"

The town gossips are at it again! They are hanging over the back fences and talking across the clothes lines to their neighbors about the biggest news of the day—the news that the Senior Class of Elba High School is going to give their annual "three-act" play on Friday evening, May 24, in the High School Auditorium. But the thing they're talking about the most is the play itself, which is a rollicking, true-to-life family type of play, entitled, "The Harvest Queen." Secure tickets as early as possible, so you can be on hand promptly at 8:30 p. m. because you don't want to be late for five weeks. That's really a pretty town. I left there the first of May, 1942, and headed north. On the way I boarded my first plane at Brisbane for Darwin, which was about an 1,800-mile ride. I stayed at the Queen Mary a year ago in May. We were 40 days never see land again. On the way we stopped at Port Delanero, South America, Cape Town, Africa, Fremantle, Australia, and Sydney, Australia. So you see I have gone around the world. I have had enough of it. Well, I am afraid to say too much and I hope you receive this. I will tell you more when I get home. I don't worry about me, for I am o. k. Just hope the Japs stay home today. Tell all hello and I am thinking of them. Love to all.

CPL. RAYMOND CLARK WRITES FROM OVERSEAS

Friday, 4-29-43. Dearest Mom and Dad: How are you all this morning? Fine, I hope. I don't feel so well at present. Didn't sleep any at all last night. Went to the show the first part of the night and went to bed at 11:30 or 12. About 2:30 we had an alert but it happened to be friendly planes (thank goodness).

Yes, I am right up in the heart of what used to be a pretty hot place and I don't mean the weather. Things have kinda calmed down now but we are expecting an invasion most any time. I am not far from Buna and I guess you have heard plenty about that place. Right after we got here we had a raid one day which included 24 Jap bombers and two Zeros. There were only a few casualties, though.

Don't forget, I hunt for my fox hole (trench) when I hear that mournful hum of Jap bombers. Our trenches are covered and pretty safe. I was at Morsby for about six months when I first arrived in this part of the world. We landed at Sydney, Australia, a year ago last March. From there we went to Melbourne, and then to Cebu, Philippines. That's really a pretty town. I left there the first of May, 1942, and headed north. On the way I boarded my first plane at Brisbane for Darwin, which was about an 1,800-mile ride. I stayed at the Queen Mary a year ago in May. We were 40 days never see land again.
